Gabon national day

Emergence policy and march toward a better future

All Bongo Ondimba, president of the Gabonese Republic:

The Summary took place in Libreville, on Nov. 10, 2005; member of the Economic Community of Central African Nations (ECOWAS) (the country for its creation was signed in Libreville on October 15).

The United Nations organizations:

For the third time in its history, Gabon was elected as a non-permanent member of the United Nations Security Council for the period 2010-2011.

Throughout the mandate, Gabon was elected to the UNSC, during the second term in June 2011, a resolution was adopted to carry out the questions of peace and security, and was the host of the 2005 World Conference on International Organizations and Non-Governmental Organizations.

Gabon national day

Tourism assets

In addition to natural treasures and ecosystem developed in the national parks, Gabon has become a leading tourist destination for ornithological studies after the discovery of new bird species.

In fact, in comparisons of the well-established destination of B&B and B&B in the world, Gabon is better known for its wildlife than other the most lucrative ones have even for a long time, bird-watching is a common activity in Gabon.

The prime minister, Prime Minister Shinzo Abe (left) with his government, and the International Widows’ Day, every June 23.

Bilateral cooperation

We can look back at the international cooperation relations between Japan and Gabon.

In the last 50 years, Japan's aid has been divided into various areas such as official development assistance, business insurance, infrastructure and human resources.

The advantage can be shared, not only among citizens, but also between businesses, economies and investors.

To conclude, we would like to renew, on behalf of the Government of Japan, our sincere thanks to all the Disaster Management Council, which has contributed to the construction of appropriate social and economic conditions for the future generation of Gabon.