

Argentina National Day Special

Building cooperation toward a more robust partnership

EDUARDO TEMPONE
AMBASSADOR OF ARGENTINA

Today, as we mark the 214th anniversary of the May Revolution and the first national government, we also acknowledge the enduring friendship between Argentina and Japan. Despite the vast geographical distance that separates us, our nations have managed to forge a bond over the past 126 years, a testament to our shared values and mutual respect.

Japan has played a significant role in our journey, and we eagerly anticipate further strengthening our ties for the prosperity of our people.

On behalf of the government and people of the Argentine Republic, I extend my heartfelt appreciation to Their Majesties Emperor Naruhito and Empress Masako, as well as to the government and people of Japan. Your continued friendship with our country and support are deeply valued and cherished.

Last December, the people of Argentina elected a new government. In this new phase, Argentina's foreign policy places a greater emphasis on Japan as a partner and regional leader in Asia. We are dedicated to deepening our economic, political and cultural ties with Japan. Our Foreign Minister Diana Mondino articulated these intentions during her official visit to Japan in March, her first official visit to East Asia.

Since the inception of this new phase, we have been working toward our shared goals in investment, energy transition and science and technology. Our collaboration extends beyond mere mutual benefits, encompassing our joint commitment to initiatives on supply resilience, food security and good practices, as well as women's rights, peace and security.

As we look ahead, we are filled with anticipation for the potential of our partnership. Top Japanese companies are already making significant contributions to Argentina's economy, and we are eager to see this collaboration grow even stronger. We are excited about the endless possibilities and opportunities that lie ahead.

I would like to convey a special greeting to all the Argentine nationals and friends of Argentina in Japan who are important stakeholders in the Argentina-Japan strategic partnership. This partnership has already achieved significant milestones, such as successful joint ventures, cultural exchanges and mutual support in international forums. I hope this occasion allows us a new opportunity to further bring peace and prosperity to the world and our nations, united by our shared and common values of freedom, respect and unity.

Businesses aim to boost bilateral activities

TAKEHIKO KAKIUCHI
CHAIRMAN, JAPAN-ARGENTINA
BUSINESS COOPERATION COMMITTEE

On behalf of the Japan-Argentina Business Cooperation Committee, I am delighted to extend my warmest congratulations to the government and people of the Argentine Republic as the country celebrates its National Day.

Argentina and Japan are strategic partners sharing common values and principles, and we celebrated the 125th anniversary of diplomatic relations last year. Both countries are also strongly tied through the important presence of approximately 65,000 Nikkei community members in Argentina.

While geopolitical tensions are continuously rising, our countries have potential to further develop bilateral economic relations in many areas, including agriculture, mineral resources and next-generation energy.

Under the leadership of President of the Argentine Republic H.E. Javier Milei, economic reforms are steadily being promoted. We were particularly honored and fortunate to be able to sense Argentina's vibrant development when Minister of Foreign Affairs, International Trade and Worship H.E. Diana Mondino attended the JABCC Business Seminar in March during her visit to Japan.

The evolution of the economic environment in Argentina will encourage the business community to further strengthen business relations between our countries. Considering this context, the early entry into force of the bilateral investment agreement and tax convention would represent important milestones in achieving this, and as the next step, we expect the early commencement of the Japan-Mercosur (trade bloc of Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay) economic partnership agreement negotiations.

The Japanese business community will continue to cooperate with its Argentinian counterparts to nurture stronger economic relations. As JABCC chairman, I will continue to do my utmost to help further enhance these bilateral business activities.
